

DALILA ACQUAVIVA

Full-stack developer junior

Dear Company,

I am Dalila Acquaviva, I graduated in June 2020 from a technical institute in the commercial sector, specializing in corporate information systems, a course of study that I really appreciated.

During my previous work experiences I increasingly noticed a propensity towards the IT aspect of my work, developing a real passion for web development, so much so that I decided to undertake a master's degree as a Full-Stack Web Developer.

In fact, even though I worked in accounting, I have always had a passion for learning every single detail regarding accounting management systems, so much so that I was able to teach my colleagues the most innovative methods for correctly recording accounting processes.

It is precisely the passion for this new world of work that pushes me towards finding a job that allows me to best increase my knowledge and skills.

I am an excellent candidate because I learn very quickly and integrate easily into the working group.

I am a determined, precise, respectful and polite girl.

I consider myself a person well disposed to teamwork but also autonomous in achieving my goals.

Unfortunately, at the moment I still have no experience in the workplace but I believe that a junior can bring added value to the company by learning the specific company procedures directly without the influence of other companies.

If you are interested in seeing one of my works you could go to my website developed with React which has part of the projects developed to date.

I hope you are interested in an in-person meeting and look forward to one your feedback.

Best regards,

Dalila Acquaviva
