Dear Hiring Manager

Over the course of my studies and professional experience, I have developed a strong passion for information technology, particularly in the design and development of web applications and software solutions that simplify and improve everyday processes for individuals and businesses.

I have gained hands-on experience in backend development using Java, Spring Boot, Spring Cloud, and Kafka, working with both relational and NoSQL databases such as MySQL, PostgreSQL, and MongoDB. Throughout my projects, I have worked with microservices architectures, Docker, Kubernetes, Git, and Agile methodologies using tools such as JIRA.

Among the most significant experiences in my career, I contributed to the development of the web application for the Italian Household Appliance Bonus, designing APIs for the management of public initiatives and integrations with the IO application of the Italian Public Administration. I also developed a management platform using Spring Boot, taking care of the backend architecture from technical analysis to implementation and RESTful API documentation.

Alongside my technical background, I have strengthened my organizational and teamwork skills through Agile environments and Scrum-based workflows, supported by Scrum certifications that helped me improve project coordination, communication, and collaborative problem-solving.

I consider myself a reliable and proactive person, capable of working effectively both independently and within a team. I enjoy taking ownership of tasks, maintaining attention to detail, and contributing to shared goals in structured and fast-paced environments.

If you would like to learn more about my projects and technical background, I invite you to visit my personal portfolio website:
